Benefits Realisation

UNIVERSITY OF WOLVERHAMPTON

Learning Outcomes

- By the end of this week, you will be able to:
  - Give benefits realisation examples
  - Know how to track benefits
  - Articulate alignment to business strategy

UNIVERSITY OF WOLVERHAMPTON

Benefits Realisation

- Benefits Realisation is a tool
- Having a benefits realisation plan
- Contribution to the overall programme / business strategy
- A fundamental part of any improvement project, running from the project's beginning to its end, and beyond.

Benefits Realisation

- By focusing on benefits realisation planning, you can track whether intended benefits have been realised and sustained after the end of the project.
- The first step is to ensure all the foundations for benefits realisation are in place:
  - Identify and make a record of the desired benefits. You may want to discuss this with stakeholders.

Benefits Tracking

- Benefits work best when closely supervised
- Benefits should be tracked from the time the business case is authorised because
  - Changes to the environment the project is deployed in can impact the benefits available as well as changes to the project itself
  - Evidencing benefits realisation will help you manage stakeholders
  - Showing that benefits are being realised may serve as a ‘proof point’ that the project is on-track.
